

For lab 5, the items listed should all go into separate documents because they are all different real-world things. A user's profile should be one .json document, a user and all the products in a store belong in another document, and an order listing all of its items belong in another because they are all separate things.